Tales OF TWO CITIES

HERE'S EVIDENCE

We don't usually run anybody's picture in this column, but in view of the fact that Harry Dier has had some question cast on his fishing abilities from time to time here, we think it only fair that the following evidence be offered:

Harry Dier and Friend

What you see up there is Harry in all his fishing getup, proudly displaying a 250-lb. black sea bass which he snared off San Clemente a few weeks ago. Strange as it may seem, Harry doesn't remember either the exact day or the hour.

As you might well guess, this is the biggest catch that Harry has ever made and needless to say he feels quite elated about the whole thing . . . . but he still has hopes of a bigger haul and as often as he tries he's liable to do it, too.

More statistics on the 250-pounder:

Caught from a fishing boat, "Old Ironsides", which sailed from San Diego . . . . took Harry an hour and three-quarters to land it, and he did it on a very light tackle. As a matter of fact, he was so shocked at what he saw in the water, he almost decided to cut his line and let the fish get away. But he took a chance on giving his "all" and won, making it necessary for us to present this pictorial evidence here today.

FLASH!

Mrs. Zella Stone (not Tweed) snagged a large swordfish that may have weighed anywhere from 175 to 200 pounds last Sunday. The reason for the uncertainty about the weight is that it wasn't on the scales until it was dressed yesterday when it weighed 144 pounds.

None of the Stones were available for comment today, having returned to the waters of Mrs. Stone's great conquest. But our informant tells us that Zella made her catch about five miles from Catalina, and it took her one hour and 50 minutes to land the marlin. Tweed, we understand, was busy through it all piloting the boat. The fish was 8 feet and 3 inches long.

INTEREST HIGH

We got several calls last Friday morning from local people on Joan Beardsley and Leland Scheu, Jr., who were lost overnight in San Antonio canyon. The callers wanted to know if the pair had been found and couldn't wait until the paper came out that night to find out . . . . which all goes to show you the sincere interest people have in each other.

DID WELL

The searching party under Capt. Cecil Meyers did a magnificent job under the circumstances and word early Thursday afternoon from Deputy Sheriff Ernie Mehl that the young couple would be found in a matter of a few hours brought some relief to the parents as well as to many other interested parties. As it turned out, young Scheu and Miss Beardsley found their way out of the dense growth themselves but if they hadn't, there is little doubt that the searching party would have found them before nightfall.

MINIATURES

Dick Crampton just beamed all over when we saw him the other day. It must be nice to be happy like that . . . . Dan Maher looked everywhere for a cool place where he could make up Rotary and had to settle for San Berdoo . . . . Phew! . . . . Harry Warner still hasn't been able to figure out why his team had to lose that last one . . . . It seems Harry Snowden got blamed for something the other day at Lions club that he had nothing to do with. Maybe Howard Paulin is the one that should be tried, even if he is the president . . . . With school opening just around the corner, Roy Civille, in between registering youths for the draft, is trying to gear himself back into shape for the fall. There is one "big thing" ahead for Roy this year.

Two Suffer Major Injuries In Car Accident Here

One passenger had a fractured neck and a second a broken back Saturday when an auto plunged from Foothill boulevard into an orange grove west of San Antonio avenue and overturned.

Hurt were Hildred Keyt, 29, Glendale, with a neck fracture. Warren Ertel, 27, Glendale, had a broken back. Both are patients at San Antonio Community hospital.

Driver of the auto, who also suffered minor injuries, was Charles E. Olmstead, Glendale

He told police he was eastbound on Foothill at approximately 50 miles per hour when the left rear tire of his auto suddenly blew out.

Mr. Olmstead said he lost control of the machine, which swerved, hitting the right curb. The car then spun around, going over the curb and coming to rest on its right side. The machine was almost totally demolished. Police said the car traveled a total of 210 feet after the blowout.

Covering the accident were Capt. Ralph Palmer, Officers Waldo Owens and Fred Strohte, and Reserves Harold Barbour and Joseph May of the local department.

An attempted "U" turn on Foothill boulevard Saturday resulted in hurts to three persons. The accident occurred on Highway 66, a third of a mile east of Turner avenue in Cucamonga.

Injured were Robert Bradley Tapp, 18, Southgate, driver of one car; Mrs. Bobbie Smith, 22, and Miss Mary Salvage, 17, both of Pomona. All had minor hurts, San Antonio Community hospital attendants said.

The crash occurred when Mr. Tapp was attempting a "U" turn to go west on Highway 66. His car was struck by a machine driven by Claude Ernest Smith, 27, Pomona, eastbound on the thoroughfare.

Etward Hoover, 22, Claremont, had a laceration of the left arm and abrasions Sunday morning when his motorcycle skidded in loose gravel at Mountain avenue and Foothill boulevard. He was treated and dismissed at San Antonio Community hospital.

Edward Duncan, 48, South Pasadena, had lacerations of the forehead and abrasions and bruises following a crash at Foothill boulevard and Red Hill drive early Saturday morning.

Mrs. Atwood, 82, 'Fair' After Fall

Mrs. J. J. Atwood, 82, pioneer Upland resident and mother of Glenn, Eldon, Floyd and Owen Atwood of this city, was described as in "fair" condition this morning following surgery at San Antonio Community hospital.

Mrs. Atwood suffered fractures of the right hip and right wrist Sunday morning at the rest home where she resides at 579 Third avenue.

The operation this morning was for insertion of a pin in the hip bone. Surgeons said she responded "satisfactorily" to the operation.

Mrs. Atwood suffered her injury when she was preparing to leave to attend church Sunday morning. According to Mrs. E. L. Eyer, in whose home she resides. The aged lady was walking to the front door with a cane and crutch when the fall occurred.

'Not So Solid' Behind Iron Curtain--Gould

NEW YORK AP—Alan J. Gould, executive editor of the Associated Press, said today on returning from Europe that "all is not so solid behind the iron curtain as appears."

There is much significance in cracks in the eastern European political front starting in Yugoslavia and now developing in Poland, he said.

Gould arrived by plane from Frankfurt, Germany, after a six-weeks' tour in which he visited Associated Press bureaus in five countries.

National Phone Tieup Darkens Labor Outlook

By The Associated Press

The threat of a nation-wide tieup of telephone service darkened the labor outlook today.

Announcement of a strike date in the communications industry came as three major strikes—in the oil, trucking and shipping industries—continued without signs of imminent settlement.

The CIO association of communication equipment workers, installers of Bell telephone equipment in 43 states, set Sept. 17 for a strike to enforce demands for higher wages and improved working conditions.

The union has 25,000 members working in 2,200 locations in all states except Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts and Montana. Union leaders said other phone workers will refuse to cross ACEW picket lines at exchanges.

The workers want their pay boosted 15 cents an hour. The company has offered eight cents. Current wages range between 88 cents and $1.54 an hour. Negotiations, in progress since May 11, are proceeding.

The New York truck strike began its seventh day. Curtailed supplies of cardboard milk containers threaten to produce the first serious shortage in the metropolis. A Jersey City, N. J., beverage firm said it would close in two days if the strike continues. Its sugar supply is nearly gone.

Thirty-five hundred AFL truckers in northern New Jersey have joined the walkout called originally by 10,000 drivers in New York City.

On the West Coast, where 28,000 CIO longshoremen have been idle since Wednesday, there was no move for settlement by either union or shipowners. Some 160 ships are tied up from Puget Sound to San Diego. The army was to ask longshoremen to handle army cargo for commercial ships to assure supplies for the Far East be kept moving.

In the strike by some 15,000 oil refinery workers in California and four other far western states, rationing of gas became a possibility. An industry spokesman estimated west coast motorists may be unable to buy gas by the middle of next week if no settlement is reached in the wage dispute.

In the truck strike, city officials expressed fear of a milk shortage because of the tieup of deliveries of fiber containers. Although food supplies are curtailed, they were not dangerously low. But householders, especially in the outlying sections of New York, were finding it difficult to find many food items.

Urges Olivedale Property Owners To Attend Meeting

All property owners in the Olivedale section were urged today by Mrs. Pearl J. Smith, chairman of the Upland-Ontario Property Owners association, to attend the mass meeting which will be held at the Edison school tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

The association was organized Thursday night in order to take a stand on the proposed Ramona freeway. The group at that time stated that should the freeway be placed on the Upland-Ontario boundary line, there should be overpasses on streets like Campus, Sultana, Euclid, San Antonio and Mountain avenues.

The speaker at tonight's meeting will be a representative of the highway department from Riverside.

STASSEN TO ANSWER

Presidential Campaign In High Gear

(By The Associated Press)

The presidential campaign zipped into high gear today with Harold E. Stassen ready to deliver the official Republican reply to President Truman's day-long series of Labor Day addresses.

From early morning until late last night, Mr. Truman hammered away at his theme that an "era of fear" and depression may result if Republican "reactionaries" are elected in November.

Stassen will speak from Detroit tonight (6 p.m. PDT) over the same NBC network that carried the President's kick-off speech from that motor city.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey already has given his blessing to Stassen's address. Dewey, who beat out the former Minnesota governor for the Republican presidential nomination, said the speech will be "of major interest to the American people".

In Detroit, Stassen asserted today the President has made an 180-degree turn in his attitude toward labor since Mr. Truman asked authority in 1946 to draft strikers into the army.

Stassen told a news conference he heard the President's appeal for labor support in Detroit yesterday.

"That speech brought back for me memories of another speech he made to Congress on May 25, 1946, when the President asked for the most totalitarian power over labor ever proposed in time of peace," Stassen declared.

In the meantime, President Truman sought a formula today for uniting labor and farm groups behind his 1948 election drive after an opening campaign skirmish into Michigan and Ohio.

He hurried back to Washington to whip a series of speeches into shape for a two-week westward trip opening at Dexter, Iowa, Sept. 18, and carrying him into his home county of Jackson, Mo.

Oklahoma City and other towns in Oklahoma will be included in the swing, the details of which likely will be announced by the White House this week.

Mr. Truman may speak again at Los Angeles and San Francisco, which he visited on his pre-campaign tour, and dip into Texas.

Mr. Truman gave an indication of one turn his appeal to the farmers will take in six Michigan speeches. Talking to a labor audience at Flint, the President declared:

"Don't let anybody tell you that farm prices are an excuse for inflation. This is not true. Before this campaign is over I will prove it. You will hear from me time and again on that subject."

Talk on Sex Open To Public

Due to numerous requests, the Thursday morning session of the Upland Teachers' institute will be thrown open to the public. Harold W. Cook, superintendent of the Upland school district, disclosed today.

The speaker at this meeting will be Mrs. Maurine W Sellstrom, a member of the staff of the Institute of Family relations in Los Angeles. She will discuss "Sex Education in the Public School."

Supt. Cook said, "inasmuch as a number of persons in the community have evidenced an interest in the teachers' institute meeting for Thursday morning, it has been decided to open this meeting to attendance of any interested adults of the Upland school district."

A number of the members of the Parent-Teacher association have already indicated their intention of attending, he added.

The meeting will be held in the cafeteria of the Elementary school Fifth avenue and Arrow highway, starting at 10 a.m.

The institute opens tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

VET CONCLAVE ONE OF BEST, DELEGATE SAYS

These were the words today of Harry Plum, veteran member of Upland Post No. 73, American Legion, upon his return from San Francisco where the conclave was held.

"Everything just went smooth from the start," Mr. Plum declared. "You know how things go—either they're right from the beginning, or they fizzle. Well, the convention this year was just perfect."

Registration at Chaffey College To Be Held Wednesday, Thursday

All students who have pre-registered during the summer for the fall term at Chaffey college, will register tomorrow and Thursday, according to announcement by College Director Leo Wadsworth.

Old students, who have attended Chaffey college previously will register Wednesday from 7:30 to 12 and 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. New students will register during the same hours on Thursday.

Entering students who have failed to pre-register should make an appointment with the director at once, it was emphasized. Appointment hours for this purpose are now already filled through Monday, Sept. 13, Mr. Wadsworth explained.

All students have been advised that there will be no further opportunity to register after the two days set aside until Tuesday, Sept. 14. For this reason, if students cannot report for registration in person, they should ask a friend to register for them, Mr. Wadsworth said. This arrangement is suggested only for those who have already pre-registered, he emphasized.

While on the campus for registration, students may also buy textbooks and student body tickets, Mr. Wadsworth said, inviting all new students to return on Friday, Sept. 10 to have lunch on the campus and meet the faculty and student body officers in an all-day freshman orientation program.

J. C. Mehl, 97 Taken by Death

Death has summoned Upland's most aged resident, J. C. Mehl, who has been an Upland resident and businessman for 42 years. He died yesterday at 6 p.m. at his residence, 636 East Ninth street, after an illness and the frailties of advanced years.

He was 97 years of age.

On coming to Upland in 1906, Mr. Mehl became interested in various business enterprises, including the Mehl Hardware Co., and later the Upland Feed & Fuel Co. He was associated with his two sons, Ernest C. Mehl and the late J. W. Mehl in the hardware business.

He had served as a minister, and on coming to Upland he was a "fill-in" pastor at the Upland Mennonite church. The Mehl family lived in Goshen, Ind., before coming to Upland.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Thursday in the Upland Mennonite church with Rev. Earl Salzman, pastor of the Mennonite church, in charge. The Stone funeral home is in charge of arrangements. Mr. Mehl had been long active in the Mennonite church.

Survivors are a son, Ernest C. Mehl, long an Upland civic leader, and now a deputy sheriff; two daughters, Florence L. Mehl, Upland, and Mrs. Edith A. Phillips, Santa Monica; one sister, Mrs. Lucy Delcamp, Wisconsin; 13 grandchildren, 16 great-grandchildren, and two great-great-grandchildren.

Ruth Johnson Forced Out by Broken Oil Line

Mrs. Ruth Johnson, Upland, failed to defend her laurels won last year in the $5,000 Halle trophy dash at the National air races in Cleveland, when she was forced out of this year's event by a broken oil line.

Her AT-6, the same ship which carried her to fame a year ago, was forced out of the women's dash event in the third lap.

Mrs. Johnson flew to Cleveland from the Cable airport here, departing Aug. 21. Her husband is an employe of the airport.

Break in Oil Strike Hinges On Meeting

Station Pumps To Be Dry by Middle Of Next Week If Walkout Continues

SAN FRANCISCO, (AP)—A possible break in the West Coast oil strike hinged today on a reopened wage conference between the Union and Shell Oil, one of the six major companies struck at midnight Friday.

An industry spokesman estimated, meantime, that if the strike continues, West Coast motorists may find filling station pumps dry by the middle of next week. He looked for Washington to impose some form of rationing, with emergency users given first call.

Today's (2 p.m., PDT) meeting between Shell and representatives of the CIO Oil Workers' International union was arranged by Glenn Bowers, supervisor of the state conciliation service. It was the first move to bring the two sides together since the strike began.

Bowers emphasized this was no industry-wide conference, but strictly between Shell and the union, although he was confident the other companies would participate in similar wage talks.

BAKERSFIELD AP — Negotiations for a general wage increase between the Independent Union of Petroleum Workers and Standard Oil Co., have broken down, Ernie Cunningham, co-chairman of the union negotiating committee, said today.

Negotiations were broken off with the companies standing on a final offer of 12¼ cents an hour; The union demanded 21. The wage issue is the crux of the dispute.

Reese Taylor, president of Union Oil of California, speaking for the industry, told a news conference last night the companies had sufficient gasoline stocks to meet demand for 10 more days.

After that, he said, there will be gasoline for essential services —including public conveyances and farmers' trucks—but none for the motorist. Air lines and other heavy users of gasoline may be requested to reduce their schedules, he added.

Officials of the various companies estimated total current production at 350,000 barrels a day for western refineries as against a normal output of 950,000. These figures include the production of all western plants, struck of not.

Shell Oil at Richmond estimated about one-third of its regular staff was on strike. Other companies reported about 20 per cent out.

The six major companies struck —Union, Shell, Standard, Associated, Texaco and Richfield — supply 70 per cent of the total petroleum production in the five western states, Taylor said General Petroleum, the biggest produc-

Gas Shortage To Hit Here, Survey Shows

Unless the current Southland oil workers' strike is settled quickly, West End motorists face the prospect of empty gas tanks before many days pass.

A survey of local gasoline distributors and filling stations revealed that today.

Although supplies on hand varied from one distributor to another, none said they could long withstand a prolonged gas "drought."

Stations, dependent on bulk distributors for their supplies were in the same fix. Although no local stations have as yet closed for want of gas, as far as could be learned, several said they had initiated informal rationing.

Some were caring for regular customers only, while others were selling but five gallons to a customer.

Distributors stressed that they will dole out supplies on a priority basis with farmers, hospitals, city governments and other such groups coming first. The public will get what is left, if any.

Nelson Van Fleet, proprietor of Van Fleet Brothers, 120 South Palm avenue, Ontario, said his company hasn't rationed gas to any station yet, and doesn't contemplate it immediately. He credited that to the fact that his company has larger storage facilities than most other distributors here about.

A Union Oil representative said his concern has reserves here for about 10 days. Beacon said their supplies aren't involved in the strike and that they expect no shortage.

Only station here abouts that has so far closed its doors, as far as could be learned, is the newly-opened "serve yourself" station in Pomona.

Most dealers expressed optimism that the strike will be settled before conditions become critical. But a wage boost to workers—which is looked for—probably will mean that gasoline is going to cost more soon.

HOLIDAY DEATH TOLL NEARS 400

(By The Associated Press)

The nation's accidental death toll during the long Labor Day holiday approached 400 today. The reported total was 393 and still incomplete.

Traffic deaths numbered 281 from 6 p.m. (local time) Friday until midnight Monday, to exceed the National Safety council's estimate of 260 highway deaths for the period.

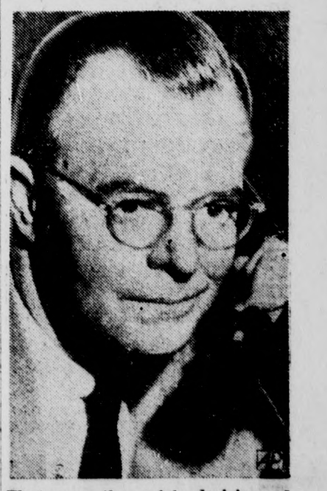

Fifty-nine persons were drowned, and 53 others lost their lives in a variety of other type accidents.

The holiday week-end toll in Canada was 35, including 15 drownings and 14 traffic fatalities.

The toll over the Labor Day holiday in 1947 resulted in 451 deaths from accidents. The total included 293 traffic fatalities, 81 drownings and 77 miscellaneous deaths.

California reported 26 traffic deaths and two drownings.

Western Powers Plan Joint Protest to Russia

Berlin Riots To Be Subject Of Firm Note

LONDON (AP)—A British diplomatic source said today the Western Powers are planning a joint protest to Russia over the continuing Communist-led riots in Berlin.

The protest may go either to Marshal Vassily D. Sokolovsky, Russia's military governor in Germany, or to the Soviet government in Moscow, the source said.

The British foreign office issued a formal statement, however, saying that any report that an official British diplomatic source had said the Western Powers are planning a joint protest to Russia over the Berlin rioting is without foundation.

A foreign office spokesman made this unsolicited statement:

"I need not emphasize the seriousness with which the deterioration in the Berlin position, resulting from the demonstrations of a minority party, is regarded here in London."

The spokesman said he could not comment officially on what action was contemplated by the Western Powers.

The three military commandants of the Western Powers were holding a special meeting in Berlin to consider yesterday's riots, in which Russian-zone German police arrested Western German zonal policemen in the city hall after German communists took over the building.

The British diplomatic source said that future British action, in concert with the French and United States governments, will be deferred until the report of the military commandants is received.

He then added that the British had no doubt the wave of Communist-led riots in Berlin the past few weeks has been organized "with the deliberate intention of wrecking the city council."

More than 600 delegates have been in attendance at the conference. These delegates have come from most of the major cities of Europe, the British Isles, the Orient, the United States and Canada. All are youth leaders in their various communities.

Youths Admit Entering Shed

Two boys who, police said, admitted taking the keys from a truck parked at Campus avenue and A street and later breaking into a shed owned by the Santa Fe railway, were questioned here yesterday.

Taken from the shed were several fuse torpedoes of the type used by railroads. Entry to the shed was made by prying off its lock.

IT'S THE RATS IN NAGASAKI

NAGASAKI (AP)—Rats have been running roughshod over Nagasaki, but now the citizens are running after the rats.

To spur the race city fathers caught 30 rats and collared them with shiny metal. Then the rats were turned loose.

Each collared rat will be worth 1,000 yen to its captor.

To make sure the metal collar is not the only quarry the city officials offered a lottery ticket for each uncollared rat. The lottery prize is 500 yen.

Western States Pick Candidates

By The Associated Press

Voters in three western states today picked candidates for five house seats and various local offices.

Two of the congressional posts are at stake in Arizona, but chief interest centered on a seven-man race for Democratic nomination for governor. Among the leading candidates are Rep. Richard F. Harless and acting governor Dan E. Garvey.

The Republican gubernatorial contest is between William R. Bourbon and Bruce Brockett, north state cattlemen and longtime friends.

In Nevada, there is a two-man race for Democratic nomination for the state's lone seat in Congress. The Republican incumbent, Walter Russell, is unopposed. Other state contests are for two places on the university board of regents and for justice of the peace in Reno and Las Vegas.

Utah will choose nominees for two house seats, governor and various state offices, with main interest in the gubernatorial race.

Gov. Herbert B. Maw is opposed by John S. Boyden for the Democratic nomination. His 1944 opponent, J. Bracken Lee, is battling it out with Rendell N. Mabey for the Republican nomination.

Present also were Ernest Fischer, high school principal, and Leo Wadsworth, college director. The group discussed matters of general interest to the athletic department.

Board Members To Attend Barbecue

Chaffey board members and their wives and husbands will meet tonight at the home of Acting Superintendent Dan Milliken, 395 Sierra drive, Red Hill, for a barbecue supper.

Although this is an official board session, Board President Lowell Bartlett said few business matters will be transacted. An adjourned meeting will probably be held later in the month to take care of more important matters on the agenda, he added.

It was emphasized that no treatment will be given and the clinic is merely to provide free examinations.

French Liaison Officer Gets Death Threat

BERLIN AP — The Western military governors considered today joint protests to the Russians against Communist-led riots which have disrupted blockaded Berlin's civil government.

A French liaison officer, who is protecting 27 German police of the western zone in the city hall, was threatened with death by an unidentified telephone caller as the Western powers studied their next step. The 27 police remained hidden in the city hall, which is in the Russian sector.

The three western military governors — Gen. Lucius D. Clay, United States, Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, Britain, and Gen. Pierre Koenig, France — met briefly. They then went into their seventh conference on the Berlin blockade with their Russian counterpart, Marshal Vassily D. Sokolovsky.

Gen. Clay told newsmen he did not know whether the riots would be taken up with the Russians at this meeting.

The western generals may decide to take up the city hall riots directly with Sokolovsky. That would lift the German political crisis into direct Big Four negotiations.

The crisis became acute after a third Communist storming of the city hall yesterday forced the elected city assembly to move to western Berlin for protection.

The delegates of the Communist-controlled Socialist Unity party (SED) refused to move along with the majority.

Leaders of the SED announced at a news conference they will boycott any further assembly meeting held in west Berlin. This appeared to be a prelude to setting up a separate Red government in the Soviet sector of the city.

FIRE DANGER CRITICAL NOW

Fire conditions in the West End are now at a critical point, and State Ranger W. W. Skinner asks all individuals in areas covered by his department to avoid open burning during this period.

"Even if you have a permit to burn," Mr. Skinner asks, "please don't use it now."

To date, Mr. Skinner reveals, there have been 50 fewer fires in county areas during this year than last. The West End in particular has escaped any serious blazes for some time. Let's keep it that way.

Nab Cashier For $22,036 Payroll Theft

PHILADELPHIA AP — Harold Thompson, 45, missing cashier of the Midland, Calif., plant of the U. S. Gypsum Co., is under arrest here today charged with theft of a $22,036 payroll.

Assistant Police Supt. George F. Richardson said Thompson admitted absconding with the payroll and that more than $19,000 was recovered in a new sedan Thompson was driving.

Richardson quoted Thompson as saying he had lost heavily to gamblers in Las Vegas, Nev., and that they threatened him with death if he failed to pay up.

35 Polio Patients At Casa Colina

Polio raged on in Southern California today with 10 new cases reported in Los Angeles county and three in San Diego county, according to Associated Press.

Casa Colino, Chino, home for crippled children, reported that 35 of its 50 patients are infantile paralysis victims now.

The physiotherarpy department of the institution is seeking a full-time registered physical therapist, Frances Eleanor Smith, executive secretary, declared.

She said the San Bernardino county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis will aid in paying the salary of such a worker.

Because the hospital now has 15 more patients than its normal capacity of 35, the school department will do ward teaching for the first part of the school terms. School rooms are presently utilized for bed wards.

The severe overtaxing of Southland hospital facilities has resulted in the conversion of U. S. navy hospital, Corona, for civilian victims of the polio epidemic.

Equipped with specially-heated swimming pools, whirlpool baths, Hubbard tubs, a gymnasium and an array of modern devices designed to aid patients, the navy hospital is regarded as ideal for recovery treatment and care.

CHESS CHAMP

Zoning Change Battlers Win

The long-continued battle over zoning in portions of south Ontario was resolved Friday night when city council acted to rescind the 20,000 square feet requirement pertaining there, and to substitute an 8,000 square foot requirement.

The new zone, to be known as agricultural - residential, will exist in that area bounded by Dessau and Francis streets and Euclid and San Antonio avenues.

Spearhead of the rezoning drive was Councilman Oregon Smith, who had long argued that the 20,000 square-foot requirement was an unreasonable restriction on use of property.

Under the compromise adopted, however, residents of the formerly agricultural area will be forbidden to keep certain animals.

Ontario International airport is to be the scene, on Oct. 30 and 31, of the first midget air races ever held on the west coast.

Council concluded an agreement with a San Diego promoter for holding of the event, which is expected to lure pilots from all over the west. The city will get $200 a day rental plus a percentage of the gross. The Ontario Junior chamber of commerce is the local sponsoring organization.

Bids for construction of the $750,000 Ontario-Upland sewage disposal plant are being accepted now and will be opened at the meeting of Nov. 1.

Because of certain legal restrictions, council rescinded its action in deeding four acres of Galvin park land to the California National Guard for an armory site, and substituted a 50-year lease.

STASSEN SPEAKS ON NBC TONIGHT

Harold Stassen, Republican party stalwart, will answer President Truman's Labor Day speech in Detroit from the same city tonight from 6 to 6:30 p.m. PDST, it was announced today. Death Has Thousand Faces, He Wore Lot Of Them on Highway Past Few Days

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Death has a thousand faces, and he wore a lot of them on the highways the past few days.

At least 271 people were killed in automobile accidents over the Labor Day weekend.

I've just come back from a 2,600-mile automobile trip through the south and some of the things I saw would make your heart stand still.

I didn't see death outright. But I saw some of his disguises as he waited for a chance to pounce.

The wind was in their hair, thrilling them, as they rocketed along, doing 60 or 65 miles an hour on a highway where the limit was 50.

At that speed on a busy road one slight twist of the front wheel, one brief skid, one ugly hole in the road could crash them into a ravine or an oncoming car.

The faces of some of the girls were tense. Some were laughing. But why did they take a chance like that?

Maybe they loved the man who drove them. Or maybe he dared them. Or maybe they didn't have enough imagination to know how bloody death can be.

Then there were the old jalopies, one of the worst menaces on the highway. There were plenty of them.

Tired, broken down old cars inched along at 20 or 25 miles an hour on an open highway where everything else was doing 50 to 75 miles an hour.

They held up traffic. The routine was always the same. They came to a hill. They wheezed up it.

Before the crawl up the next hill began one by one the faster cars peeled off, pulled out into the opposite lane. They had to build up speed fast to cut around the jalopy and get back into their own lane. If they didn't they'd crash into an on-coming car.

Nearly every jalopy on the road was a hazard.

Then there were the bright boys. The ones who ignored all the signs and rules of the road and passed cars going up a hill or around a curve.

When they did they had to move out into the on-coming lane although they couldn't see what was coming over the hill or around the curve in that lane.

But they took a chance. All that I saw escaped without a collision but that was only because at that instant no other car was coming over the hill or around the curves.—JAMES MARLOW.

BOB RUARK — Wallace Has No Luck Speaking in South

MEMPHIS—You know how in the movies when a naive character pulls an awful boner in front of everybody, how you squirm for him and shift in your seats? That is how you feel about Henry Wallace, when he is face to face with the "common man", the little man that Henry is going to save if it kills 'em both.

Mr. Wallace is dramatic when he is unable to speak because people are plastering him with boos and bric-a-brac, or when his lofty principles forbid him to utter a mumbling word. With his mouth shut, Henry is one of the greatest orators I ever saw, because he can look so tired and soulful and downtrod, like every man's hand is agin him and his shoes don't fit.

But when the people are standing there, ripe to listen, Henry gets lost. He looks at the faces, and the faces stare back at him, and it discourages him. He gets no spark from the Negroes he has sworn to emancipate. No communication exists between Henry and the po' whites whom he attempts to patronize. Henry stands up and says looky who's come to save you, and the faces answer impassively: save who from what?

During the days I have been trailing Henry on his southern stump tour, it seems to me his audiences have been composed chiefly of the idly curious, out to see what the critter looks like. A few hundreds come and stand on the sidewalk, shuffle, and wait expectantly for something to happen. If no tomatoes splatter, no eggs fly, they amble off again, disappointed. They have been cheated of a bear-baiting.

Wallace the extemporaneous orator makes you blush.. A humorless man, with all the robust earthiness of a floorwalker in a decorating salon, he strives to establish contact with the audience, and winds up with both feet firmly in his mouth.

He has attempted all the clinches of the wool-hat spellbinder, but they are awkward on his lips. He tried a feeble poke. Nobody laughed. I wanted to crawl under the car.

In Alabama, he invoked a dead relative native to that locality to help him reach his audience, but this stab at sympathy died as dead as his old aunt, or whoever she was. Getting down to fundamentals, he promised a bale of cotton per acre, under the guidance of the Progressive party. Sunbaked, hard-hewed men just stared and spat. Henry was talking in a region which habitually yields two or three bales per acre.

Henry's theme has been that the south isn't rich enough, and when he tells how he can put a double helping of chitlins in every skillet, he sounds nearly as illogical as old man Townsend. He attempts to flatter, by praising the athletic prowess of a state, and manages to sound like an old maid talking prize fights.

Once, in desperation after failing to evoke receptivity by repeatedly name-dropping Franklin Roosevelt, Henry searched helplessly for some established political names with which to sanctify himself by association. The best he could do was Justice Hugo Black and Claude Pepper.

Henry repeatedly has mentioned the 'Wall Street Gang," with the dogged desperation of The Daily Worker. Last time I listened, he was accusing the Wall Streeters of illegitimately fathering the Dixiecrats.

No speech of Wallace's that I have heard has struck even one chord in his audience. He has striven for the homeliness of the red-necked demagogues, and has managed to sound like a YMCA counselor lecturing on the evils of sex. Wallace, attempting joviality, fits a rural stump much as Gov. Jim Folsom would adorn a literary tea.

Henry strides out reasonably smooth on his radio stints, reading ghost-prepared copy in a mealy come-to-salvation voice. Then he can play savior, then he can play martyr. But face-to-face with the constituents, he couldn't sell 'em Sears and Roebuck as a social force.

Lemon Prices Show Impact of Heat

LOS ANGELES — Reflecting the impact of the recent heat wave, the market on California lemons showed a better than 50 per cent increase in average fob prices during the week ending Sept. 4, but because of lighter supplies in the markets, sales were about 100 cars behind those of the previous seven-day period. Temperatures have cooled off in some sections of the country, but lemon prices remain at a good level.

THE TOODLES

FROM THE Sidelines

By STEVE KALAGIAN

Football fans here this year are going to be just about as interested in what happens to several Chaffey alumni as they will be in the wins and losses of the two Chaffey teams.

Quite a number of former panthers are entering four-year schools, with Anse McCullough, master pilot of Chaffey's aerial offensive last year, and Bob Sachs, one of the greatest defensive ends in jaycee circles, being two of the outstanding examples. Two former Tigers, Jim Hayes and Don Lucas, have been at Stanford the past two years and will probably be heard from in the 1948 season.

Perhaps the biggest question mark in the minds of Chaffey sport fans is McCullough. For the past two years at Chaffey, Anse's long-range passing and ability to hit his men most of the time brought high words of praise from every sports writer in Southern California. McCullough's press clippings piled up in droves after the brilliant exhibition of the Panthers in the Junior Rose Bowl against the high-stepping Cameron Aggies. He was compared to Frankie Alberts and tabbed as the coming "T" quarterback in the west.

Well, Anse is going to have the opportunity this season to make all those predictions come true. With the University of Washington, he should have the perfect set-up because if there's anything Howie Odell needs it's a good "T" quarterback who can throw the pigskin from any position and make it pay off in touchdowns often enough to make the Huskies a Rose Bowl threat.

From all reports Odell is going to have a fairly well-rounded team and IF McCullough clicks, he may have a very dangerous one. But will the former Chaffey grid star make the grade?

There are a number of people here who don't think so. They point to the fact that Anse is temperamental and doesn't always get along with the rest of his teammates. We could fill a book on "McCullough Stories" we pick up almost every other day and they're all about the trial and tribulation he was to his coaches and the rest of the team. And most of the comments about him run something like this, "The trouble with him (McCullough) is that he knows he's good."

Granted. Maybe Anse does realize the natural talent he has and he's still young enough to take it all very seriously. It's a problem that has existed with a lot of all-time football greats through the ages.

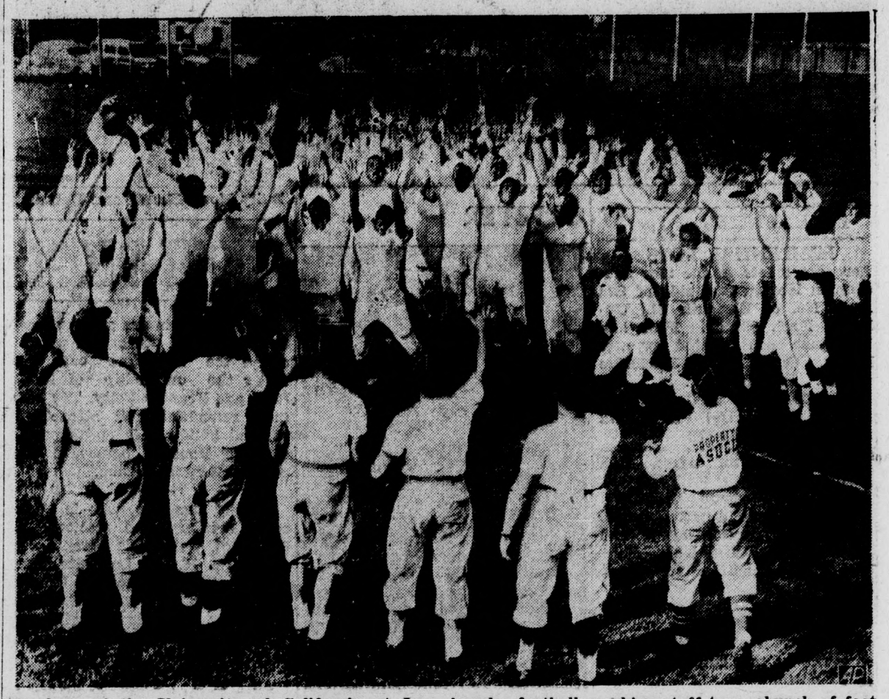

We aren't trying to defend McCullough's frequent exhibitions of temperament with the Panthers, but merely emphasizing the fact that this in itself doesn't always hamper a great football player. And in the case of Anse, he is an intelligent kid and he undoubtedly has learned some very valuable lessons while at Chaffey. Important, too, is the fact that at Seattle he will have to "toe the mark" or else. This in itself will, we think, go a long way in toning Anse down, making him realize that he either conforms to the pattern set down by the coach or he just simply doesn't play.

We think Anse McCullough is going to come through in grand style at Washington. He may have some difficulties in the beginning (we hope not) but we have the sneaking hunch that he's going to come out of it very early in the season. Of course, we might be disappointed but we expect to see him passing the Pacific Coast conference silly at times and by the time Anse is a senior, he'll reach the pinnacles that his talent entitles him to. We wouldn't even be surprised to find him up there among the "stars" before the curtain comes down on football this year.

SHORT PASSES — Basil "Frenchy" Harris, a Gopher alumni, is pretty proud of the fact that he picked Minnesota for the Rose Bowl in 1949 even before Grantland Rice did . . . Basil was booming the Gophers for Pasadena in the middle of last season . . . Ray Rosso at Orange Coast isn't going to have too much material to work with this year but don't be surprised if he turns out a pretty fair team . . . Ray spent half of his summer attending coaching schools in the north . . . We don't know what Harvey Shirk has done with himself, but he looks at least 10 pounds heavier . . . Being close to oil must agree with the Chaffey athletic director . . . After a year of "character building", Truck Lindsey is now going to develop football players for the jaycee. That's his story this year, anyway . . . Minnesota may be the Big Nine representative in the Rose Bowl on New Year's day but don't rule out Purdue, Northwestern or even Wisconsin . . . Every report indicates that the Western conference is going to be stronger from top to bottom this year . . . Out here, everybody is picking Cal and Oregon, but the Trojans could conceivably surprise all the experts . . . and maybe the absence of some of the "big stars" in the UCLA lineup will help the Bruins . . . But one thing we can be sure of, we're probably going to see the best football this year on a national scale than we have in many years.

IT'S PRACTICE TIME FOR THE BRUINS

Members of the University of California at Los Angeles football coaching staff toss abunch of footballs to aspiring UCLA gridders as the Bruins begin practice for the 1948 season at Los Angeles. A large squad with a healthy sprinkling of lettermen, greeted head coach, Bert LaBrucherie.—AP Wirephoto.

Panthers Start Tonight

The Chaffey college Panthers will open the 1948 football season when they hold their first workouts under the lights at 7:30 tonight.

Also a first for the present squad will be its "first course" in the single-wing, which George Hobbs, new Panther coach, will use instead of the "T" which has been in use at the college for the past two years.

Coach Hobbs re-emphasized today that practice sessions are always open to the public and he extended a cordial invitation for Chaffey fans to the first one tonight.

Between 60 and 70 gridders are expected to turn out, with additional men expected after school starts next week. Coach Hobbs is holding night sessions this week in order to give the gridmen an opportunity to retain their jobs for another week.

The practice tonight opens a week of sessions under the arcs. Although no scrimmages will be held, Hobbs has promised "tough" workouts from the start. Emphasis will be placed on fundamentals throughout the week, he said.

Next week when school opens workouts will be held in the afternoons.

CHAMPS

STOCKTON (AP) — Fresno's Rockets, winners of the California Women's Softball championship, will play in the national championships at Portland, Ore., next week-end.

NEWS-HERALD TO PROVIDE COMPLETE COVERAGE OF CHAFFEY GRID GAMES

Complete coverage of all Chaffey football games as well as other local sports will again be provided by the Daily News-Herald this fall.

Bob Holt, who covered the Chaffey Tiger games last year, will be back on the job again to bring you his accurate and concise reports. Holt will follow the Tigers wherever they go and keep you informed on prospects before every game.

All of the Chaffey Panther games will be covered by Steve Kalagian, who returns to the sports page with the advent of the football season. Kalagian brought you the highlights of last year's college and high school contests and stuck with the Junior Rose Bowl classic from beginning to end.

Don Benson, special News-Herald sports writer, who covered the Panthers in 1947, will bring you an analysis of most of the Chaffey contests to supplement the regular coverage of each game.

Two additional features will continue to make the Daily News-Herald sports page one of the brightest and most readable in this area. Benson will continue to write his popular column, "Sport-o-graphs", and a new addition will be a column by Kalagian titled "From the Sidelines", which makes its appearance for the first time today.

Rip Rockets

NEW YORK (AP)—The Buffalo Bills, making their first home appearance, whacked the Chicago Rockets yesterday, 42-7, before 25,816 spectators in the All-America professional conference's only holiday game.

The Rockets, coached by Ed McKeever, set a new conference record by throwing 49 forward passes. Twenty-one were completed for a total of 258 yards, but no touchdowns came through the air.

Oaks Stay On Pace

(By Associated Press)

Oakland's veteran first sacker, Nick Etten, has slugged his way into contention in the Coast league's home run derby.

The wartime New York Yankee pounded a homer in each game—his 37th and 38th—to lead the Oaks to a double Labor Day win over San Diego, 11-1 and 5-1. In a week-long spree, Etten smashed seven homers in nine games against the Padres, never more than one per contest.

The splurge left him eight roundtrippers behind San Diego's Jack Graham, stalled at 46 since July 25 when he was severely injured by a beanball. Graham finally resumed his position this week and banged out several timely hits—but no homers. Headaches still force him to lay off occasionally.

Meanwhile, Tony Lazzeri's PCL record of 60 looks pretty safe.

Oakland pulled to within a game and a half of the leading San Franciscans, who divided with Portland, 9-6 and 9-10.

Labor Day Was Great For Boston

(By The Associated Press)

"They can't catch me when I'm in front."

Those words, uttered by Billy Southworth earlier this season, were ringing in the ears of Burt Shotton today as he brought his groggy gang back to Brooklyn.

The silver-haired Dodger pilot, home from an ill-fated one-day trip to Boston, knows now what Southworth meant. He received a first-hand illustration as Billy's league-leading Braves drubbed Brooklyn in a Labor Day doubleheader, 2-1 and 4-0.

The St. Louis Cardinals, only two and a half games off the pace before yesterday's games, were handed a staggering double defeat by the Pittsburgh Pirates, 2-1 and 4-1, to fall into fourth place, four and a half games behind. The Pirates advanced a notch to third place, two percentage points in front of St. Louis and three behind Brooklyn.

The fifth place New York Giants retained an outside chance by sweeping a double-header from the Phillies in Philadelphia, 4-3 and 3-0. They trail by six and a half games, but only four on the losing side of the ledger.

Climaxing a great day for Boston, the American league-leading Red Sox boosted their first place margin over the New York Yankees to a game and a half, sweeping both games from the Senators in Washington, 14-6 and 2-1. The Yankees lost a full game when they were held to a split by the Philadelphia Athletics. The Yanks won the opener, 6-4, for their ninth consecutive triumph, but the A's ended an eight-game losing string by winning the nightcap, 6-2.

The third place Cleveland Indians were held even in their double-header in Chicago, to skid to four and a half games off the pace. After losing the opener, 3-1, the Tribe came back to defeat the White Sox in the second game, 1-0.

In the other American league twin bill, the Detroit Tigers split with the Browns in St. Louis, winning the opener, 8-1, but losing the second game, 11-10. The Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati Reds divided a National league doubleheader, the Reds winning the opener, 3-1, and the Cubs taking the second game, 6-2.

The second largest home crowd of the home season — 39,670 — which gave the Braves a record season attendance of 1,305,060, saw 14 furious innings before the Braves finally subdued the Dodgers in their first game. Lefty Warren Spahn, pitching his best game of the season, went all the way for the Tribesmen and gave up only five hits as he won his 12th victory.

The Braves produced the winning run after two were out. Earl Torgeson doubled off the centerfield wall to score Clint Conatser, who had walked.

Rookie Bob Chesnes and southpaw Vic Lombardi limited the Redbirds to a run apiece as the Pirates made it 11 out of 18 against St. Louis. The Bucs engineered eight double plays, six in the first game, to tie a National league record. The American league mark for most double plays in a game is seven.

The Ontario Pirates two-timed the Pasadena Pirates Sunday at Galvin park, winning by scores of 2-3 and 3-1. Manager Kenny Smith twirled the low score nightcap, yielding three hits.

The first contest was clinched in the fifth inning when the locals ran wild to count seven times. Freddie Peltz was the winning flinger in that one.

Friday the locals bowed to Shadegg's Insurers of San Bernardino, 9-3.

Two Hurt in Accident Here

Saturday afternoon.

Driver of the car which struck the Hudson machine was Edwin Francis Devoe, 39, Chino. The crash occurred at 4:15 p.m.

Jane Blankenship, 22, Los Angeles, had lacerations of the face and shin and a contused neck early this morning when the auto in which she was a passenger ran off Highway 99.

Two non-injury accidents occurred here over the Labor Day week-end.

While police were tagging a commercial bus for a vehicle code violation, a car halted immediately behind the bus was struck by a third machine at Foothill and Euclid last evening.

The autos involved were driven by Fulsom C. Scriviner, 38, Needles, and Rollin A. Colbert, 18, Maywood.

Mr. Colbert's car was the most seriously damaged and was removed by tow truck.

Yesterday at 10:30 a.m., a three-car accident occurred at Sixteenth street and Mountain avenue. Cited as a result of the crash were John Dushek and Coste Ferrante, both of Los Angeles.

Police said Mr. Dushek's machine had defective brakes, and that he had skidded 134 feet, striking Mr. Ferrante's auto, which was westbound on Sixteenth street.

Mr. Dushek's auto then glanced off and struck the third auto, driven by Joseph Nicassion, also of Los Angeles.

BREAK IN OIL STRIKE HINGES ON MEETING

er, not on strike, still has a contract in effect.

The union says 15,000 men are out in this first major strike against the industry.

In Los Angeles Mayor Fletcher Bowron ordered curtailment of all municipal usage of fuel except for the essential police, fire and hospital services.

The mayor said that if an industry or government gasoline allocation plan is adopted he will immediately name a committee of representative citizens to handle it. Presumably public transportation systems would have first call after essential city services.

The Los Angeles transit lines reported sufficient fuel on hand to supply its 508 diesel coaches and 50 gasoline buses only through tomorrow night.

Ex-Stanford Grid Star Dies at 51

SAN FRANCISCO Æ — State Senator Clarence J. (Red) Tauzer of Santa Rosa, veteran of both World Wars and a one-time Stanford football player, died last night. He suffered a heart attack Thursday at the California American Legion convention. He was 51. Tauzer was an organizer of Santa Rosa junior college and president of the board of trustees.

ABOUT PEOPLE

Improvements are getting much attention from patrons of what is called the "Eat-More" cafe, now under the ownership of E. W. Roth and Frances Felty. The cafe, in a remodeled and attractively painted building, is on the north side of Foothill boulevard just east of Benson avenue.

Donald Laughlin, who is in the coast artillery and stationed at Fort Ord, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Laughlin, 1226 North Campus avenue, Upland, over the holiday weekend. He is a Chaffey graduate and will complete his eighth week in the army next week.

Miss Esther Lane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Lane, 1294 East Ninth street, came home for the holiday weekend. She is employed at the Stanford University Institute.

Mr. and Mrs. Nate Buchanan, of Buchanan's Do-Nut Shop, returned early this morning from a holiday weekend trip to Santa Cruz, where they visited with Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Goodloe. The Goodloes were friends of the Buchanans back in Kansas.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Connor, 906 East Arrow highway, Upland, returned over the week-end from a motor trip that took them into the Mother Lode country. Fishing was very good in Trinity river in Trinity county, far into Northern California, the local realtor reported. He brought back a sample of "gold" he picked up while at the state's historic gold rush scene. Mr. Connor is associated with G. T. Redmon in the real estate business here.
